

Daniel L. Dudas President of TMI

Dan Dudas has been an executive in engineering, program management, business development, and general management at three major Defense companies. Additionally, he served as a U.S. Navy fighter pilot and he has an additional 30 years of consulting expertise in positioning to win and capturing new business.

As the founder of TMI, he has written several hundred case studies on major competitions, and has perfected the application of TMI's Winning Best Practices. His expertise is applied in competitive assessment and win strategy development and implementation, as well as Engineering to Win, including CONOPS and mission analysis, Price to Win, and derivation of best value. Dan holds an MBA from the Harvard Graduate School of Business, as well as both Master of Science and Bachelor of Science degrees in Aeronautical Engineering from the University of Illinois.